Project Description

The system will give you the kind of control you want and need when you are responsible for the management and delivery of many different kinds of newspapers and magazines publications. The system should store customer information, delivery address (es), supplier, product, line (All customers are grouped by line no, for easy to distribute the magazines to the delivery boy), delivery boy, stock. The system tracks when subscriptions started and when they are not anymore available for each customer. The system can also create seasonal campaigns to attract subscribers.
